

THE MAGIC BALL

"Hey you, what are you doing?"

"Nothing." said Sally so Jack walked away but he heard her saying, "I want to play." So Jack came and started to play with her. Soon after that Jack's friends came over and said,

"Why are you playing with her? She smells."

"No she doesn't." shouted Jack "And I'm not your friend now" and he walked away with Sally.

30 years later Sally and Jack had got married and had a little boy called Jon. Jon grew up and had a birthday party and his friends came and he got lots of presents.

One of his presents was a ball, but not just any old ball, this was a magic ball and it made all his dreams come true. Jon dreamed that dragons still existed and it came true and Jon kept on dreaming dreams.

Jon grew up and got a girlfriend and a baby. He still had the ball. He had another dream that he had a pet lion. The lion messed everything up.

Forty years later Jon was older and he still had the ball. He kept on making so many dreams, he got annoyed and threw the ball away and lived happily ever after with no dreams.

THE END

Words by Bethany aged 8 and a half, typed and spell checked by Beckie aged 26 and eleven twelfths.